GREAT INTEREST MANIFESTED

State College Preparing for Contest Here Next Friday.

Tallahassee, Fla., Nov. 21.—Great interest is manifested in the Capital City over the result of the game of football to be played next week in DeLand between the teams of the Florida State College and Stetson University. Never before in the history of athletics at the State College has such interest been taken in the result of any one contest.

This is the first year that the State College has had a regular football eleven. Last year was the first attempt and it was impossible to get out a good team then owing to inexperience and lack of financial means. When the school opened this year it was seen that the college was not able to support, in a financial way, a team such as they wanted to send out and an appeal was made to the business men of the city with the result that it is now in a better condition financially than any in the State. The State eleven is the first collegiate team that has ever left the State to engage in a series of games. They were highly praised by the Atlanta papers while on their recent trip there on their good conduct, gentlemanly bearing and clean football work.

The State College, though a pioneer in the inauguration of intercollegiate contests, has never yet met Stetson, and this fact tends to create more interest in the game Thanksgiving. Many of the prominent men of the city and friends of the institution will accompany the boys to DeLand.

Conditions of Championship Cup.

Jacksonville, Fla., Nov. 21.—As the season for football draws to a close great interest is being taken in the outcome of the contests for the championship cup offered by the Times-Union. The terms upon which this cup will be awarded are, that each of the four college teams in the State are to play the other three at least one game and that at the end of the series the team having the highest percentage shall be awarded the championship of the State for the season. If two of the teams have an equal percentage at the end of the season, then these two will play one game to settle the question. All games of intercollegiate teams, with teams other than collegiate teams, will not be counted and games played with collegiate teams outside of Florida will not be counted.

E. F. S. REFUSES CHALLENGE.

Declined to Meet State College in Contest for T. U. Cup.

Tallahassee, Fla., Nov. 21.—The manager of the State College football eleven is in receipt of a letter from the East Florida Seminary team in which they decline the challenge of the State College for a game of football. This challenge was made in accordance with the offer of the Times-Union to donate a championship cup on the condition that each team play at least one game with every other collegiate team in the State. East Florida Seminary defeated State College here early in the season and claims that this game should count in the series. As this game was played before the offer of the cup it will not be counted and the Times-Union has so ruled. The manager of the team here has claimed the game with East Florida Seminary on a forfeit.

Business College Notes.

Two new Remington typewriters have been added to the department.

M. A. Escobar, of Havana, Cuba, is taking our course in book-keeping.

The Business College is represented each year in athletics. We now supply left guard on the football team.

Mr. Macdougall is always cheery and pleasant, though he has "Knox" every day.

Mr. Hancock, after a short visit home, has returned to his work.

I wonder who puts grapefruit and oranges in Miss Wood's desk.

Miss Rich, Mr. Gantier and Mr. Andrews represented us in the game at Jacksonville.

Mr. Willison is very much handicapped in his work by a sprained wrist.

Miss Morrish is now assisting in the offices, and we are assured that it is all "Wright."

The "Fuller Touch Method" is preferred by Mr. Ed Mickle more than any other. He seems quite elated with it.

Athletics.

Nothing is doing in athletics this week. The hoped-for game with Gainesville will not be played today. Our boys feel that the E. F. S. team should come here to play the first game, inasmuch as we went up there first last year. There seems to be some reluctance on the part of Gainesville to do this, and so we are deprived of our game.

We are now getting ready for the Thanksgiving game at this place, between Tallahassee and our team. A great game will be played and we are all excited.

There is no earthly (or other) reason why every single constituent of Stetson University should not be present at this game, to yell for the boys. We trust that members of the faculty who went out walking while the struggle was going on last year will see the evil of their ways and reform. We feel sure this will be done.

Truck Farming in Florida.

Since writing my first letter I have received several letters of inquiry in regard to this section. While I have answered them personally I decided that I would write again for your paper, as that is the best means of reaching the people, and it seems that people in other sections are interested in knowing something about Florida and its prospects. Permit me to say that there is but one Florida, which is destined to be one of the leading states from every standpoint. As I stated in my last letter that when the freeze in 1895 came upon the State and destroyed the orange industry, those mostly interested in the orange business thought the State ruined. I don't think a state ever had such a loss as the people here sustained on that memorable night, and yet in a few years they were again in perhaps as good or better financial condition than when the freeze came, when nearly every one was depending on the oranges for everything that they consumed, and, of course, their money was invested in this one product. But it is not so now. Since they have commenced growing vegetables and general farming they are on a more substantial financial basis and it does not cost as much to farm as it did to grow oranges, and the diversity of vegetables that can be grown for market is almost sure of making some money, and it does not require as much land. Ten acres of good land is about as much as one man needs for the growing of vegetables.

Of course, we use fertilizer in making a vegetable crop, but under favorable conditions the results are generally good and the growers make money. When a cabbage crop has been grown on land during the winter, the same ground is planted in corn. Hence two good crops from the same land in one year. So it is with tomatoes. After the crop is gathered the same land can be planted in sweet potatoes. Hence it does not require so much land to make a good farm. Of course, where one wishes to sow oats, plant pinders and other field crops, it will take more land. Cabbage, beets, lettuce, etc., being planted in the fall and grown in winter, do not interfere with the spring crop of tomatoes and lettuce, as they are planted in January, while the other crop is growing. Some might ask what are the real results from this vegetable growing.

We answer that a failure is very seldom. This county is not entirely free from failures, but they come as seldom here as any other place that I know of. A real good season for cabbages will make from 150 to 200 barrel crates, and these, in a fair market, will net from $1 to $1.50 per crate, and sometimes more. Beets will grow 200 to 300 small crates per acre, and they generally sell at $1 per crate. Now this same land planted in corn will make from twenty to thirty-five bushels per acre. Tomatoes make from 150 to 300 crates per acre, and generally sell for $1.50 to $2.50 per crate and on the same land can be grown a crop of sweet potatoes. Watermelons and cantaloupes are planted generally in February. Watermelons make one car to three acres. Cantaloupes generally yield well and bring fair prices. The price depends largely on the quality of the stock shipped. That is the case with all vegetables. Good stock seldom fails to bring fair prices. The health here will compare with any other section of the State, and much better than many other places. The summers are warm, especially in the sun, but, with only few exceptions we have a good breeze and in the shade it is pleasant. The nights, as a rule are always pleasant. Land is cheap enough for any one to buy who can buy land at all. The people are kind and Florida is noted for the hospitality of her people. Any one who desires to do so can make a good home and money besides. We want good, intelligent people to come and settle, and share the prosperity which is in store for the land of flowers. All such will meet a kind welcome from the people of this section.—W. C. G. Kilgore, Wildwood, Fla., in Home and Farm.

In Trig. Class.—Professor Smith: What was your trouble with that problem, Mr. T.? Mr. T.: I couldn't get the value of "r." Professor. Professor Smith: And your's, Mr. P.? Mr. P.: I couldn't get the "y." Professor Smith (looking in book): Why, brother, I don't see an "r" or a "y" in that problem. Where are they? Both gentlemen point to the Greek letter "gamma."

KENT CLUB MEETING.

Debate the Ship Subsidy Question --Public Debaters Chosen.

The Kent Club met at the usual hour Saturday night. President Van Sant in the chair. After going through the routine business the regular literary programme was taken up. In the absence of one of the debaters the chair appointed Mr. Wilson to take his place. The question was, "Resolved, That the United States should subsidize her merchant marine."

Affirmative: Thomas, Wilson; Negative: Schofield, Wilson.

The debate was spirited and instructive. The judges, Messrs. Hutchinson, Blanton and Johnson, retired to consult, and reported in favor of negative 2 to 1. The reading by Butler was humorous and well rendered.

The matter of selecting the club's representatives to meet the literary department was considered, and Willson, Butler and Blanton were chosen. The first two are members of the senior law class, and have been faithful workers in the club all through their law course. They are pleasing and forcible speakers and are well worthy of the high honor that has been bestowed on them. Blanton is a junior law student, and this is his first year at Stetson. He attended the first meeting of the club and became a member, and his ability as a debater was soon seen and recognized.

The Collegiate Sued.

We learn this morning, just as we go to press, that a suit will be instituted in a few days against the Collegiate for libel and slander by (Bishop) Kelly of the Law Department. Judge Edward Oates, Chancery Wright and Justice Jones have been retained as special counsel.

Vain endeavors were made this morning to see the complainant, or some of his attorneys, and interview them regarding the proposed litigation but none of them could be found.

Basketball.

Basketball is getting to be the "real thing" with the girls. The contests are becoming more and more hard fought and more strenuous. The Raz-zies have improved very materially in their playing, and for the past week the Dazzles have meekly joined in giving the victorious score of the Raz-zies. The games are becoming more interesting and more scientific.

Blue Lake Picnic.

One of the first picnics of the season was the one at Blue Lake Saturday, chaperoned by Miss Calhoun. A pleasant morning was spent on the water, after which a bountiful lunch was spread in the club house. Those so fortunate as to attend this happy affair were: Misses Hill, Shaw and Porter; Messrs. Jack and Pat Sams, Guy Edow, Professor Beardsley and Jack Camp.

Vespers.

Miss Palmer led the services, and her talk on "Highways—Mental, Moral and Spiritual," was very much to the point, and thoroughly enjoyed by every one.

The vesper choir sang "One Sweetly Solemn Thought," with solo in it by Mr. Beardsley. Professor Rodgers' rendition of "Melody," by West, on the organ, completed the services.

Are They Dangerous?

The petition asking for a holiday on the Friday following Thanksgiving was not granted, and we will consequently have to attend school on that day. In speaking of the matter in chapel, Dr. Farris said: "Every sane member of the faculty wants you to have a holiday, and every sane member of the faculty wants a holiday for himself or herself. The faculty are opposed to granting the holiday." The inevitable conclusion to which we are forced is —?

Several days ago the oratorical association appointed a committee to arrange for an intercollegiate debate after Christmas, and it is understood that this committee will report back to the association a recommendation to the effect that instead of a debate that Stetson University invite the other colleges of the State to join us in the formation of a State Oratorical Association. This is the proper thing to do. The time is ripe for a State oratorical, and we believe the other colleges stand ready to join us. The Collegiate is heartily in favor of this proposition and urges the association here to adopt this measure at once and arrange for the formation of a State association.

If the railroads of this State were a little more considerate of the college men of Florida—the men that are to run the government in the days to come—there would be less of that general unfriendly sentiment towards them.

The law men of Stetson debated Primary vs. Convention last week and decided in favor of the primary. Several of the primary advocates evidently expect some day to get before the people in the wild scramble for office.

If the crop of Thanksgiving turkeys was as plentiful as the crop of candidates now before the people, there would be no doubt about the meat going all around the table next Thursday.

Up to the present writing the Collegiate has not been accused of being a subsidized sheet.

And the metal cup is still the rage in Elizabeth. Will some kind friend come forward and donate a cup of a little lighter shade?

The game here Thanksgiving will be the most interesting of the season, and every student should witness it.

Stetson Literary Society.

Probably the most lively debate we've had so far this year came last week. The subject, "That the power of the Vice-President should be increased," was not so good a one as might have been selected, but still the debaters warmed up to the subject at any rate. All the numbers were given and a very profitable meeting was held. Programme may be found in last week's Collegiate.

There is a possibility, nay, even a probability, of a debate between the "Laws" and the "Lits." before Christmas.

Before It is Too Late.

If you've a gray-haired mother
In the old home far away—
Sit down and write the letter
You put off day by day.
Don't wait until her tired steps
Reach heaven's pearly gate—
But show her that you think of her
Before it is too late.

If you've a tender message
Or a loving word to say,
Don't wait till you forget it,
But whisper it today.
Who knows what bitter memories
May haunt you if you wait—
So make your loved ones happy
Before it is too late.

The tender word unspoken,
The letters never sent,
The long forgotten messages,
The wealth of love unspent.
For these some hearts are breaking,
For these some loved ones wait—
So show them that you care for them
Before it is too late.

Who?

Who is a Socialist? It is the man Who strives to formulate or aid a plan To better earth's conditions. It is he Who, having ears to hear, and eyes to see

Is neither deaf nor blind when might, roughshod,

Treads down the privileges and rights which God

Means for all men, the privilege to toil,
To breath pure air, to till the fertile soil—

The right to live, to love, to woo, to wed

And earn for hungry mouths their meed of bread.

The Socialist is he who claims no more Than his own share from generous nature's store.

But that he asks, and asks, too, that no other

Shall claim the share of any weaker brother.

And brand him beggar in his own domain

To glut a mad, inordinate lust for gain.
The Socialist is one who holds the best Of all God's gifts is toil—the second rest.

He asks that all men learn the sweets of labor

And that no idler fatten on his neighbor.

That all men be allowed their share of leisure.

Nor thousands slave that one may seek his pleasure.

Who on the Golden Rule shall dare insist—

Behold in him the modern Socialist.

—Elta Wheeler Wilcox.

Nut Grass as an Economic Factor.

Florida is a land of surprises. Her people are intelligent, wide-awake to any possible improvement, quick to follow the lead of any hint of Nature.

For twenty or thirty years we raised velvet beans as a verandah ornament with a slight suspicion of poisonous quality; then one morning we wake up to find them taking very near the highest rank as a stock forage.

We dug the Japanese cane out of its obscurity of years and set it up as the acme of paying crops on our light sand-hills; a purveyor of syrup and of feed said to be even more nutritious than velvet bean hay, though this remains yet to be demonstrated.

The nut grass has long been to the Southern farmer the synonym of detestable things in his field, a plant which he would dismount and fox-hunt to dig out with his pocket knife. But it triumphed over him all the same, and took possession of his field. Some farmers hated it so intensely that they were about ready to sell out and move to Texas when the nut grass got possession.

Now, comes the latter-day Florida farmer, who was born without any prepossessions in his blood one way or the other toward nut grass, and pronounces it a thing not altogether bad—yes, even good.

Mayor C. W. Campbell, of Ocala, one of the most practical farmers and prolific farm writers the State has ever seen, used to champion the hated nut grass. To young farmers writing to him to ask how to extricate it he would reply, "What do you want to get rid of nut grass for? It is the best natural hog forage you have on your farm."

This seemed to be the actual fact. We have not at hand the chemical analysis of the bulb, but the best analysis is the testimony of the hog. A band of hogs with only one half improved blood in their veins, turned into an old, abandoned field, will root nut grass all summer and gain 50 to 80 pounds apiece by the end of October. Then finish them off with a light daily feed of corn for a couple of weeks, to harden their fat and flavor their flesh, and you will have the cheapest and best bacon you could make.

The hogs plant one bulb, or half a dozen for every one they consume. It is ineradicable, self-planted, self-perpetuated, self-cultivated. It is one of Nature's best provisions for the "lazy Floridian." The bulb is small, sweet, nutty, rich. The exercise of rooting for it gives the hog just that delicious blend of fat and lean which makes the perfect bacon—not a mass of fat such as the four-inch pork we buy from the North and absorb into our blood to give us "risings" or boils all summer.

Even on the Stetson farms at DeLand, where the best up-to-date methods prevail, nut grass is accepted as an invaluable factor in farm management. "Old fields" are fenced hog-tight for no other purpose but to be used as a hog-range; it is considered one of the best investments on the estate.

Rev. W. A. Myers, of Daytona, reached in the M. E. Church South last Sunday. This was the first sermon of a series of revival services being held in that church during this week.

W. Fisher.

(Overheard.) Two Stetsonites telling jokes to each other: First Stetsonite—
"Now, wasn't that Rich?" Second Stetsonite—"No, that was Booth." Both were happy that they were men of the World(y).

cy.

Mrs. Spangler's dancing school opened Saturday night, with a good attendance, and met for the second time on Wednesday evening. Both occasions were much enjoyed and several novices were initiated into the arts of Terpsichore.

Miss Bush still continues in poor health. It is with regret that we learn this, and we all join in wishing for her a speedy recovery.

It really seems as though news were very scarce around these regions when even the bulletin board can boast of nothing fresher than the College Schedule of Freshman and Sophomore classes for the fall term.

Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Osborne arrived from Michigan Thursday evening to spend the winter at their home on West Minnesota avenue. Their many friends in the University circles are delighted to welcome them home.

A basket ball team was organized in H-ell a few nights ago and a general challenge issued. Some one has torn down the challenge, whereat the fiends are very wroth, as it is difficult to get up a document of the kind and avoid a measure of profanity.

School Supplies at Allen's Pharmacy.

Wednesday night the "College" girls were "at home" as usual, in the back parlor of Chaudoin. Several of the men called and the chafing dish, which was gracefully presided over by these charming hostesses, was the center of attraction.

The "L" girls were made happy by a bountiful spread, consisting of fried potatoes and some supplementaries thereto in Miss York's room. It's strange to note how anything in the "eating line," from potatoes up, will appeal to a college girl.

Pharmacy.

Miss Bessie Porter was called very suddenly to her home in Ocala Thursday night by the illness of her father.
Rev. Mr. Porter is well known here as one of our trustees and one of the University's warmest friends. We sincerely hope for his speedy recovery.

Professor Daghistan is singing tenor in the vespers choir now. The sopranos are Miss Lucena Spaulding, Miss Katharine Crawford and Miss Pearl Spaulding; the altos, Miss Emma York and Miss Louise McKinney; bases, Mr. Mickle and Mr. Walter Sparkman; tenors, Mr. Hal Cox and Professor Daghistan.

Through Professor Baldwin we hear welcome news of Melville Johnson, '01.
Mr. Johnson will be remembered by Stetson students as our crack baseball and tennis player, and also as the best of good fellows. At present Mr. Johnson is in Lynn, Mass. He shows his loyalty to Stetson by subscribing for the Collegiate, and by expressing a wish that he could be among us this winter.

Miss Palmer recently broke her spectacles and had to wear an old pair which seemed to affect her sight in a peculiar way, making people look younger, smaller, and generally less dignified. She was preparing to close up the library at noon and was running out the late stayers when she noticed a person by the newspaper table. "Who is that boy over there?
I shall have to make him leave now," said she. "That boy" was Dr. Farris!!
